Accounting treatment—Thomas Cook agreement

Update on accounting treatment of the Thomas Cook agreement

- On 28 July 2017 Webjet notified the market of a disagreement with its auditor, BDO Audit (SA) Pty Ltd (BDO), on a technical accounting matter relating to its financial statements for the year ending 30 June 2017
- In August 2016, Webjet entered into an agreement with Thomas Cook as preferred supplier for the majority of the volume of Thomas Cook's complementary hotel business (Contract). Webjet paid £21 million to Thomas Cook for the transfer of around 3,000 hotel contracts and for the implementation costs of the deal
- During a 2 year "transitional period", Thomas Cook agreed to pay Webjet a fixed management fee (in instalments) in order to retain access to the hotel contracts. Thereafter, Thomas Cook will pay a volume based fee
- The accounting treatment applied by Webjet was to record an intangible asset (10 year amortisation), and to recognise the fixed management fee as revenue on a monthly straight-line basis over the transitional period. The volume based fee (post transitional period) will be treated as revenue on an accrual basis
 - intangible asset amortised over 10 years based on the assessment of the economic life of the hotel contracts
- In completing its half year review, BDO signed off on this treatment in its Independent Auditor's Review Report in respect of Webjet's 31 December 2016 financial statements (lodged on 22 February 2017)
- Subsequently, BDO advised Webjet that it may no longer agree with the above accounting treatment (i.e. it being recorded as an intangible asset) and the recognition of the fixed management fee as income. On 27 July 2017, BDO advised Webjet of its final decision in which it confirmed that it had indeed changed its mind concerning the accounting treatment of the Thomas Cook contract and the transactions under that contract
- Further to the announcement on 28 July 2017, the Company has engaged with ASIC in respect to its disagreement with the auditor in relation to the technical accounting treatment related specifically to the Thomas Cook agreement
- The Company is seeking to resolve this matter and will ensure that its FY17 accounts comply with applicable accounting standards and the Corporations Act

KEY RISKS AND SELLING RESTRICTIONS

1. Operational risks

This section discusses some of the risks associated with an investment in Webjet. Webjet's business is subject to a number of risk factors both specific to its business and of a general nature which may impact on its future performance and forecasts. Before subscribing for Webjet shares, prospective investors should carefully consider and evaluate Webjet and its business and whether the shares are suitable to acquire having regard to their own investment objectives and financial circumstances and taking into consideration the material risk factors, as set out below. The risk factors set out below are not exhaustive. Prospective investors should consider publicly available information on Webjet, examine the full content of this presentation and consult their financial or other advisers before making an investment decision.

Competition

Given Webjet operates in a predominately online environment, it is facing significantly increased competition from existing and/or new sites and business models and the introduction of further new mobile booking apps is considered to be a risk to Webjet's market share. The fast release nature of new online technologies and development of apps could impact Webjet.

If Webjet's competitors or potential competitors become more effective, or if new competitors enter the market and Webjet is unable to appropriately respond to or counter these actions, the Company's financial performance or operating margins could be adversely affected.

Competition has also grown through internet-based travel providers and metasearch businesses, including the rise of "home stay" OTAs such as Airbnb, Homeaway, and Tripping. In the B2B space there could be increased competition from OTAs in any of these forms. The "home stay" OTAs may also impact the market for hotel rooms (as they offer an alternative to a hotel room), or increase competition by offering hotel rooms in addition to homes on their websites. The competition may adversely impact the Company's financial performance and its ability to execute its growth strategy, including in respect of JacTravel.

If the actions of competitors or potential competitors become more effective, or if new competitors enter the market and Webjet is unable to counter these actions, the Company's financial performance or operating margins could be adversely affected or Webjet may be unable to compete successfully.

Market risk

Webjet is exposed to changes in consumer sentiment towards Webjet itself, travel in general and across key markets. Consequently, a failure by Webjet to predict or respond to any such changes could adversely impact Webjet's future financial performance.

Technology risk

Webjet and the JacTravel business that it is acquiring rely heavily on information technology systems. Key systems are operated under licences and the Company's costs may increase. Licences may be terminated or not renewed. The suppliers may be subject to events, such as insolvency or technical failures, leading to temporary or permanent loss of services and systems.

Webjet makes a significant time and cost investment in its information technology and sales systems to deliver cost savings in its processes and operations to achieve increases in efficiencies. The information systems are not proprietary systems. Should these IT systems not be further developed and implemented or upgraded by suppliers when anticipated, it may negatively impact the Company's performance potential and competitive position.

An interruption, loss of or delay of the Company's internet or communication facilities or transaction processing facilities, loss or corruption of data, failure of backup and restoration procedures (including as a result of a cyber attack, malicious damage to Webjet's IT systems or fraudulent use of Webjet's data or information or breach of privacy of consumer data) or failure of back up and disaster recovery systems and plans may impact the Company's short term financial position and may have a longer term impact on client and supplier satisfaction.

In addition, any pricing ticketing errors may result in Webjet making additional payments to suppliers under Webjet's seat price guarantee.

People risk

If not managed effectively, Webjet's ability to attract and retain key talent in its management and operational staff could have a negative effect on its reputation and performance.

Webjet is substantially dependent on the continuing service of its Managing Director as well as other key executives. There is no guarantee Webjet will be able to retain the service of such persons

Key risks (cont'd)

1. Operational risks

Online booking market

Webjet and JacTravel are exposed to the significant influence of Google in both search results and as a key element in the online marketing space. Notwithstanding Webjet's significant brand awareness and depth of product, it continues to bid aggressively for key search terms in Google in order to defend its current positions. Changes to any element in the online booking market, including changes imposed by Google, may cause Webjet's marketing costs to materially increase, which could adversely impact financial performance and position.

Foreign exchange risk

A shift in the value of the Australian dollar, particularly against the US dollar, GBP or Euro can impact domestic consumer spending and in turn, impact the domestic and international travel markets. Despite Webjet's strong position in online flights and accommodation, Webjet is unable to accurately predict the lead-in time or flow-on effect of any movement in the Australian dollar and impact on consumer spending.

As such, fluctuations in a number of exchange rates, including the Australian dollar / US dollar exchange rate, Australian dollar / GBP exchange rate and Australian dollar / Euro exchange rate may adversely have a negative effect upon the financial performance and position of Webjet and JacTravel. Webjet's increased business outside of Australia following the JacTravel acquisition also has the potential to increase the impact of currency movements to its business.

Security

As with all e-commerce businesses, Webjet is heavily reliant on the security of its websites and associated payment systems to ensure that customers are confident of transactions online. Breaches of security could impact customer satisfaction and confidence in Webjet and could impact the operations and financial performance of Webjet and/or its share price.

Maintenance of professional reputation and brand name

The success of Webjet is heavily reliant on its reputation and branding. Unforeseen issues or events which place Webjet's reputation at risk may impact on its future growth and profitability, its ability to compete successfully and result in adverse effects on its future business plans.

Supplier relationships

A key element of the business model of Webjet and JacTravel is the strength of the relationships that each business has established with its suppliers. The retention of these existing suppliers and the sourcing of new suppliers is a key factor that underpins Webjet's business model. The flight-centric nature of the B2C businesses makes the relationships with key airlines of particular importance. In addition, a key selling point for consumers is Webjet's ability to provide consumers with tickets for all major airlines on its search and booking engine. Loss of any major airline as a supplier may significantly diminish the attractiveness of Webjet's search and booking engine to consumers and thereby reduce Webjets sales.

The hotel supply rights of Webjet's B2B business, including the JacTravel business, are also very important. Loss of material suppliers, or a change in how suppliers transact with Webjet or with Webjet's customers, may diminish the attractiveness of Webjet's B2B offering and impact on growth and profitability.

In many cases the suppliers of Webjet and JacTravel (including airlines and hotels) are also direct competitors to Webjet's and JacTravel's business. These suppliers may develop ways to direct consumer traffic to their websites and other sales points. A change in the relationship with Webjet's suppliers may adversely impact on the financial performance and position of Webjet.

Any change in commission rates payable could significantly impact margins. The quantum, compositions and proportion of commissions and incentives from airlines, hotel providers and other suppliers may change over time, impacting Webjet's business model and profitability, if it is unable to adapt.

Diminution of customer satisfaction and loyalty

The businesses of Webjet and JacTravel are a customer service business and they are therefore dependent on customer satisfaction and loyalty. Any diminution in customer satisfaction, Webjet may have an adverse impact on the financial performance and position of Webjet.

Key risks (cont'd)

For personal use only

1. Operational risks

Hostilities, terrorism and other external events

Webjet may be adversely impacted by international hostilities or war, acts of terrorism, epidemics or outbreaks of disease, political or social instability, natural disasters and weather effects. JacTravel has a particular focus on the European market, which has been the subject of a number of recent acts of terrorism. These events may impact upon travel to specific locations or be of generalised effect. These events may also impact airline, accommodation and other travel sales, which may have an adverse impact on Webjet's and JacTravel's operating and financial performance and more immediate impact upon its share price.

Government policies and regulation

Unfavourable changes to government regulation or legislation, regulatory requirements or policies/procedures including relating to consumer credit laws, the registration, operations and licensing of travel agents, consumer financing, banking policy in relation to credit cards, regulation of trade practices, competition, general consumer laws and taxation may adversely affect Webjet's business model and profitability. Webjet is also subject to the regulatory requirements of the Corporations Act, the ASX Listing Rules, ASIC and the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission and Reserve Bank of Australia policies and to similar regulation internationally. Changes to any such legislation, rules and regulatory requirements, or to other policies and procedures of government or other regulatory authorities, may affect Webjet, its business operations and/or its financial performance or have other unforeseen implications.

Intellectual property

Webjet's ability to leverage its innovation and expertise depends upon its ability to protect its intellectual property and any improvements to it. Intellectual property that is important to Webjet includes, but is not limited to, trade marks, domain names, its website, business names and logos. Such intellectual property may not be capable of being legally protected. It may be the subject of unauthorised disclosure or unlawfully infringed, or Webjet may incur substantial costs in asserting or defending its intellectual property rights.

Tourism industry

Webjet's operating and financial performance is dependent on the health of the tourism industry generally. A decline in the domestic and international tourism industry, whether as a result of a particular event (such as a terrorist attack, outbreak of disease or a natural disaster, such as earthquakes and volcanic ash clouds) or economic conditions (such as a decrease in consumer and business demand), could have a material adverse effect on Webjet's operating and financial performance.

2. Acquisition risks

Funding risk

The acquisition of JacTravel is subject to funding condition precedent, however, if it is not completed Webjet is liable to pay a break fee of £2,000,000. The acquisition is being partly funded by a combination of the fully underwritten pro-rata accelerated non-renounceable entitlement offer of new shares in Webjet documented in this presentation, a placement of 2.6 new shares in Webjet to management and private equity vendors of JacTravel, a new A$100 million debt facility and the remainder of cash. The Underwriting Agreement is subject to customary termination events and if the Underwriting Agreement was to be terminated, there is a risk that Webjet may not raise sufficient funds from the capital raising to complete the acquisition. The new debt facility and draw down by Webjet on it is subject to customary conditions precedent which could limit Webjet's ability to fund the acquisition with debt if not satisfied. If the Underwriting Agreement was to be terminated or debt not available, Webjet will consider other funding options or may otherwise be required to terminate the relevant acquisition agreement. Webjet may seek to obtain funding by issuing additional shares or borrowing money. Any additional equity financing may be dilutive to shareholders and any debt financing, if available, may involve restrictive covenants, which may limit Webjet's operations and business strategy.

Analysis of acquisition opportunities

Webjet has undertaken financial, tax, legal and commercial analysis on JacTravel in order to determine its attractiveness to Webjet and whether to acquire it. It is possible that despite such analysis and the best estimate assumptions made by Webjet, the conclusions drawn are inaccurate or are not realised. To the extent that the actual results achieved by the acquisition of JacTravel are different to those indicated by Webjet's analysis, there is a risk that the profitability and future earnings of the operations of Webjet may be materially different from the profitability and earnings expected as reflected in this presentation.

Reliance on information provided

Webjet has prepared (and made assumptions in the preparation of) the financial information relating to acquisition of JacTravel included in this presentation in reliance on financial information and other information provided by JacTravel. If any of the data or information relied upon by Webjet in its due diligence process and its preparation of this presentation proves to be incomplete, incorrect, inaccurate or misleading, there is a risk that the actual financial position and performance of Webjet may be materially different to the financial position and performance expected by Webjet. Investors should also note that there is no assurance that the due diligence conducted by Webjet and its advisors on JacTravel was conclusive and that all material issues and risks in respect of the acquisition have been identified. Therefore, there is a risk that unforeseen issues and risks may arise, which may also have a material impact on Webjet. ³²

For personal use only

2. Acquisition risks

Integration risk

The acquisition of JacTravel involves the integration of JacTravel's business, which has previously operated independently to Webjet. As a result, there is a risk that the integration may be more complex than currently anticipated, encounter unexpected challenges or issues (including maintaining the current culture of the JacTravel business), take longer than expected, divert management attention or not deliver the expected benefits. As well, while Webjet has negotiated a normalised amount of working capital to be available in the business at completion of the acquisition, this is a negative amount (due largely to the fact that a business like JacTravel has a large amount of forward booked sales) and there is a risk that this may be inadequate and require further working capital support from Webjet. The acquisition of JacTravel may also trigger acceleration, review or termination events relating to material contracts of JacTravel because of its change of control. These circumstances could all impact on Webjet's operating and financial performance.

Uncovered warranty and indemnity breaches

Webjet may suffer a loss as a result of conduct of the sellers of JacTravel for which the representations, warranties and indemnities negotiated by Webjet in its agreement to acquire JacTravel turn out to be inadequate in the circumstances. This could include Webjet becoming liable for unknown liabilities. The warranties and indemnity protection that Webjet has negotiated with the sellers of JacTravel are limited by the fact that the majority seller is a private equity fund, and it is customary practice in the United Kingdom for private equity sellers to only provide limited warranty and indemnity protection. Webjet has put in place warranty and indemnity insurance to support the warranties and indemnities received from sellers of JacTravel, however, that policy will not respond on all matters and is subject to a maximum liability cap, and therefore may provide no coverage on a particular liability for Webjet. Such uncovered liability may adversely affect the financial performance or position of Webjet post acquisition.

3. General risks

Share price fluctuations

As with any entity with ordinary shares listed on the ASX, the market price of Webjet shares will fluctuate due to various factors, many of which are non-specific to Webjet, including recommendations by brokers and analysts, Australia and international general economic conditions, inflation rates, interest rates, changes in government, fiscal, monetary and regulatory policies, global geo-political events and hostilities and acts of terrorism, and investor perceptions. Fluctuations such as these may adversely affect the market price of Webjet.

3. General risks (cont'd)

Economic Risks

Webjet is exposed to economic factors in the ordinary course of business. Factors such as changes in fiscal, monetary and regulatory policies can adversely impact Webjet's earnings.

Businesses such as Webjet that borrow money are potentially exposed to adverse interest rate movements that may affect the cost of borrowing, which in turn would impact on earnings and increase the financial risk inherent in those businesses.

Financial information and forecasts

The forward looking statements, opinion and estimates provided in this presentation, rely on various contingencies and assumptions. Various factors and risks, both known and unknown, many of which are outside the control of Webjet, may impact upon the performance of Webjet and cause actual performance to vary significantly from expected results. There can be no guarantee that Webjet will achieve its stated objectives or that forward looking statements or forecasts will prove to be accurate.

Taxation

Future changes in Australian taxation laws, including changes in interpretation or application of the law by the courts or taxation authorities in Australia or other jurisdictions in which Webjet operates, may affect taxation treatment of an investment in Webjet shares, or the holding and disposal of those shares. Further, changes in tax law, or changes in the way tax law is expected to be interpreted, in the various jurisdictions in which Webjet operates, may impact the future tax liabilities of Webjet.

Dividends

The payment of any future dividends will be at the discretion of the Board and will depend, amongst other things, on the performance and financial circumstances of the Company at the relevant time. There can be no guarantee as to the likelihood, timing, franking or quantum of future dividends from Webjet.

Change in accounting policy

Webjet is subject to the usual business risk that there may be changes in accounting policies which impact Webjet.

Key risks (cont'd)

3. General risks (cont'd)

Accounting treatment

In August 2017, Webjet entered into an agreement with Thomas Cook pursuant to which it was appointed to be the preferred supplier for the majority of the volume of Thomas Cook's complementary travel business (Contract). The Contract entitles Webjet initially to a fixed management fee during a transitional period and then to a volume based fee.

The accounting treatment applied by Webjet to the Contract was to record the Contract as an intangible asset, to be amortised over a period of 10 years, and to recognise the fixed fee paid to Webjet under the Contract as revenue on a monthly straight-line basis over the transitional period. The volume based fee payable to Webjet under the Contract, which applies after the initial transitional period, has been treated by Webjet as revenue on an accrual basis.

Webjet's auditor, BDO Audit (SA) Pty Ltd (BDO), approved this approach when signing off on Webjet's interim accounts to 31 December 2016. However, BDO has advised Webjet that it no longer agrees with Webjet's accounting treatment of the Contract (i.e. being recorded as an intangible asset) and Webjet's recognition of the fixed fee as revenue. Webjet obtained advice from two Big 4 accounting firms in relation to the accounting treatment of the Contract, and both firms supported Webjet's position that

1. The Contracts purchased from Thomas Cook are an intangible asset, and as such should be capitalised
2. The fixed fee received from Thomas Cook should be treated as revenue

The differences in the views between Webjet (and two of the Big 4 accounting firms) on one hand, and BDO on the other, relate to technical matters only and do not affect the quantum or timing of the fixed fee payments to be made by Thomas Cook to Webjet under the Contract.

If Webjet were to adopt the accounting treatment in FY17 proposed by BDO, the A$11.0 million revenue recognised by Webjet from the Contract for FY17 would have to be reversed, and incorporating FX impact, the adjustment to EBITDA would be a reduction of A$11.5 million. Further, the A$32.7 million carrying value of the intangible asset associated with the Contract would be derecognised.

The Company has provided information to ASIC in respect of its disagreement with the auditor in relation to the technical accounting treatment related specifically to the Contract. The Company will ensure that its FY17 accounts comply with applicable accounting standards and the Corporations Act.
